SALT LAKE, Oct. 5.—Three distinct earthquake shocks were felt here tonight. The first of the shocks was felt at 7:42 and lasted until 7:47. All three shocks were also felt distinctly at several places in Idaho. The movement, which from Salt Lake seems to have been north and south, extended throughout to Cache Junction, in northern Utah, and is said to have been particularly severe at Logan. From Holbrook and Malad, small towns in southern Idaho, come reports of three distinct shocks, within a period of two minutes.

TONOPAH GIRL TAKES POISON IN SAN FRANCISCO

HAZEL BARNES ENDEAVORS TO KILL SELF AFTER QUARREL

"Following a quarrel with her sweetheart, Miss Hazel Barnes, a stenographer, 727 Grove street, left him standing in front of her home at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, and rushing into the house, locked herself in a room and took a large quantity of lysol.

"Luke Kibler, 101 Russ building, the sweetheart, with the assistance of Earl Kane and Miss Barnes' stepfather, broke down the door and had the girl removed to the central emergency hospital. She is expected to recover.

"Miss Barnes, with Kibler, Kane and Miss Coral Kirby of 1391 O'Farrell street, attended the nickel dance at Pierce and Sutter streets Saturday night. The party stopped at a cafe on the way home and the quarrel that almost had a fatal termination started during the midnight supper."

Miss Barnes is well known in Tonopah, having resided here for several years. Kibler and Kane were also residents here several years ago and moved to Goldfield. Kibler while in this city, was connected with the Nye County Mercantile company. Kane worked for a time on one of the Goldfield papers as a cartoonist and later drifted into the stock brokerage business.

DOING GOOD WORK IN AUSTIN MINES

W. J. Douglass, a principal owner and one of the officers of the Tonopah Midway Mining company, made a trip of inspection through the workings of the Austin Maunhattan company and gave Editor Hawthorth of the Revue the following interview:

"It's a great work they have done in the tunnel. We saw the station and the machinery installed there and I have seen no better work anywhere. This company is certainly going about developing Austin in the right way and has entrusted the work to the right men. It's good mining and I would be glad to make another trip under Lander Hill when the Frost shaft is down three or four hundred feet. You

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—After spending the entire forenoon in the cities of Oakland and Berkeley, Mr. Taft was welcomed to San Francisco this afternoon by a throng which lined the sidewalks along the line of march over three miles of the principal streets. Twenty-five thousand school children greeted the president in this city, which was the most prominent feature of the reception. In covering the three cities and spending three-quarters of an hour on San Francisco bay, Mr. Taft had a busy day.

BIG SHOWING ON NEVADA FIVE GROUP

The Nevada Five group consists of seven claims and is owned by C. Hunsaker and associates of Los Angeles. This promising group is situated about 350 feet southwest from what is known as the Wingfield group, which has the big showing on the Buckhorn belt. William M. Hennessy, who is a very favorably known and thoroughly reliable mining man, has recently made an exhaustive examination of the district and especially of this group and he is of the opinion that limited amount of development work will place this proposition in the producing class of gold properties.

Some stripping of the vein on the surface has been done and discloses an ore shoot 19 feet wide, with neither wall in sight. The formation is decomposed porphyry. This proposition can be economically and expeditiously developed at considerable depth by the tunnel system, which is the cheapest method of mine operation. Good pinnings have been had at the grass roots and the strong disclosure of gold-bearing mineral at the surface is sufficient warrant for believing that high grade gold bearing shoots will be uncovered in prosecuting a drift on the vein.

Mr. Hennessy will have the management of this property.—Nevada Slogan.

COURT PERMITS ANSWER TO GAMBLING COMPLAINT

Another chapter was added to the history of the case of Amanda Esden against James May, John Nolan and the Golden Hotel company, yesterday, when the defendants filed an answer to the amended complaint of the plaintiff. It is now expected that a trial will follow for the recovery of $2580, alleged to have been lost by H. W. Esden, deceased husband of the plaintiff, over a roulette table.

The case has been in the courts for several months and a judgment was at one time entered up for the plaintiff, but recently Judge Orr decided that the judgment was of no effect.

Esden, it is said, lost the money which had been entrusted to him by

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—After spending the entire forenoon in the cities of Oakland and Berkeley, Mr. Taft was welcomed to San Francisco this afternoon by a throng which lined the sidewalks along the line of march over three miles of the principal streets. Twenty-five thousand school children greeted the president in this city, which was the most prominent feature of the reception. In covering the three cities and spending three-quarters of an hour on San Francisco bay, Mr. Taft had a busy day.

As he was crossing the bay the army transport was setting sail for the Philippine islands and by the president's request the revenue cutter Golden Gate, on which he was a passenger, was drawn up alongside the big vessel, whose sides were lined with soldiers and the families of officers. On the bridge of the transport the Philippine constabulary band, which played at the president's inauguration at Washington and which was with him recently in Seattle and this morning at the Greek theater in Berkeley, was lined up and was playing "Hail to the Chief." The president shouted to the soldiers on board: "Good-bye, boys, I wish you a pleasant voyage." Answering cheers came back to the president. "Does it make you feel homesick, Mr. President?" asked Captain Butt, his aid. "Indeed it does," replied the president, "and I would give anything if I were going with them."

The president, referring to his own experiences in Manila in one of his addresses today, said: "You never can tell what the future is going to bring about. It seemed a long way around to the White House to go 10,000 miles into the tropics, but that is where it landed me."

Berkeley had the honor of being the first city overlooking the bay to welcome the president. He was escorted to the Greek theatre of the University of California, where he was greeted by Prof. Barnard Moses. The president made a brief address in which he declared that ideals in popular government were splendid things to cultivate but that the man at the helm must be content with a compromise; he must accept his responsibilities and "play the game" whether he succeeds in bringing the people to follow him or whether he follows the people.

From Berkeley the president went to Oakland and made an outdoor address to a throng of several thousand people. Crossing the bay on the revenue cutter Golden Gate, he had luncheon during the trip. Upon arrival at San Francisco he was taken for a three mile carriage ride through the principal streets. On Van Ness avenue the president reviewed the city's school children. Next he laid the cornerstone of the new Y. M. C. A. building and expressed again the interest he always feels in Y. M. C. A. work. Taft has what the delegates refer to as his "Y. M. C. A. speech." He has laid cornerstones for this class of buildings in Shanghai, Hong Kong, all through the United States, and in many other parts of the world, and being a Mason in good standing, Taft always works hard when he has the task of laying cornerstones, and today's ceremony was no exception to the rule. With a silver trowel he sprinkled mortar for full

Starts Active Opposition to the Corporation Tax

(By Associated Press.)

DENVER, Oct. 5.—Active opposition to the corporation tax as supported by President Taft here less than two weeks ago, was launched today at the opening of the business session of the American Street and Interurban Railway Manufacturers association. President James Shaw of Boston in his annual address today ranged himself with the opponents of the corporation tax and declared the case would be carried to the courts for a decision as to the constitutionality of the law. He held that the tax imposes additional burdens upon holders of corporation stock which does not affect the income of bondholders. Shaw advocated a proposed amendment to the constitution giving congress power to levy a tax on incomes, "at least in case of emergency," holding that it would be more just and more likely to reach the possessors of large incomes, while not materially affecting others. Shaw's address also emphasized the magnitude of the industry represented in the present congress, which includes 250 companies in the United States, owning 35,000 miles of single track and 75,000 passenger cars. The total passengers carried each year aggregate ten billion, with a gross annual income of $440,000,000. The outstanding value of their stocks and bonds is four billion dollars.

considerably alarmed by reports as to his health.

The governor expressed regret over his inability to attend the mining congress at Goldfield, but was pleased to note the failure of the resolutions censuring Forester Pinchot.

Speaking of the resolution favoring the abandonment of the apex theory in mining litigation, Governor Dickerson said that he believed the resolution was well timed. He declared that the apex rule was productive of much litigation, in which the poor man usually got the worst of it, while a rule limiting the field to the four sides of a claim would be much more equitable for all.

by five minutes before the big block of granite was ready to be lowered into place.

Later in the day the president was the guest of honor at the Republican Union League club. Tonight he was tendered a banquet at the Fairmont hotel by more than 600 residents of San Francisco and later was entertained at the Press club.

The president retired at the St. Francis hotel at midnight. He will leave at 8 o'clock in the morning for the Yosemite valley. During the trip across the bay the president's flag, flying from the Golden Gate, was saluted by the training ship Pensacola, the training ship at Goat Island, and the cruiser St. Louis and revenue cutter McCulloch. While in Berkeley the president visited his cousin, Mrs. Charles T. Blake, after which there passed in review the pupils of the institution for the deaf, dumb and blind. The hundreds of flags waved with unseeing eyes, the silent nods of the dumb and cheers from the blind pupils, deeply impressed the president.

Mr. Taft saw San Francisco today for the first time since the fire. At the time of the disaster he was secretary of war and had much to do with the plans for the relief of the stricken people. The president was greatly interested in the upbuilding of the city.

In his speech at the banquet tonight Mr. Taft reiterated his views on the subject of the merchant marine, and aroused great enthusiasm by his declaration that he would urge the passage of a ship subsidy law as one of the principal subjects of his forthcoming message to congress. "The extension of the Pacific trade is one of the objects of the administration," Taft said, and added that he knew of no more important subject to which congress could devote its attention.

EARLE CLEMONS TAKES OVER BULLFROG MINER

Frank P. Mannix, county treasurer, who returned last week from Rhyolite, stated that during his stay in the southern camp he disposed of the business of the Bullfrog Miner to Earle R. Clemmons, editor of the Rhyolite Herald. Mr. Mannix felt that he could not devote his time to the paper owing to the treasurer's office requiring the most of his attention. The plant at Rhyolite has been locked up pending its future disposition.

(By Associated Press.)
NANAIMO, B. C., Oct. 5.—Thirty men are known to have lost their lives in an explosion which entombed more than 50 men in the Extension mine of the Wellington Colliery company, near here, this morning. Twenty-five imprisoned men were rescued but the rapidly spreading fire prevented the rescuers from completing their work. Eight bodies had been recovered up to 7 o'clock this evening. The accident happened at 9 o'clock this morning. The force of the explosion was terrific, blowing out stoppings and unhinging doors. The fire is now burning on two levels.

BANNOCK IS THE NAME OF NEW NEVADA CAMP

Bannock, which is in Lander county, Nevada, near Battle Mountain, is to be the name of the new city which grew up the other day when people heard about the gold that W. S. Wilhelm was quietly digging out of the ground at the mouth of Philadelphia canyon. While the camp goes on, adding new inhabitants daily, and a noise like a boiler pervades and agitates the ether, Mr. Wilhelm says nothing, but goes on nonchalantly taking out and sacking the gold with the naivete of one engaged in the most ordinary and commonplace employment.

So rich has the ledge become that it was considered necessary on last Monday to place a guard over it commissioned as a deputy constable. Wednesday of this week an armed guard accompanied Mr. Wilhelm to town with a load of the ore in an automobile. The treasure brought in was said to have been valued at $10,000.

Eleven leases have been let on the company's ground and five more have been applied for. A telephone line is being built from the town of Battle Mountain and will be completed into the new camp in about ten days. County Clerk Harvey F. Harris, who has the contract for building the line, has a force of Indians digging the holes and erecting the posts, and will be ready to commence stretching the wire within a few days.

The ledge in which the gold occurs is widening with depth and becoming richer; some of the richest specimens yet encountered have just been taken out.
